Remove Checkbox from Today window

Posted by eric_la - 2014/05/02 03:59

Hi,

I am using Shadow4 skin. There is a "Today" window.

On the "Today" window, there is one big "checkbox".

Can I remove that?

Thanks. http://www.rainlendar.net/cms/images/fbfiles/images/Today.png

You can but you would need to edit the skin. You can find instructions how to uncompress the skin and edit it from Rainlendar's help. The window is defined in the today.xml file. Note that if you remove the button you can only close the window from the menu.

Hi,

I have unzip the file, and deleted the last line from the today.xml.

I assume this is the button:

However when I zip it back and rename the zip file as Shadow4.r2skin. Restart the Rainlendar, drag and drop the Shadow4.r2skin file to the Rainlendar. It says "Unable to install the skin!" - The skin doesn't contain the "skin.xml" file...

Am I doing it right? How can I fix this?

Thanks.

When you zip the content make sure you don't create an additional folder into the zip. The skin.xml file must be in the root of the zip.

Hi,

I manage to get it running. Now the checkbox is not shown. Thanks.

Just one more thing, is it possible to list upcoming events in the TODAY window?

I noticed that is available for TODO, there is a "Hide upcoming tasks" option. But this option is not available under EVENTS.

How can I edit it? Possible?

Thanks.

_____

You can set the "todayonly" to "0" to show also the upcoming events but that will basically make the event list in the today window work the same way as the separate event list window.
