
Auto-check for updates

I'm not sure if this has been implemented in Rainlendar2, but maybe it could automatically check for updates on start-up or something. I was using version 0.2x for the longest time and I never thought to check for an update until I saw a friend's rainlendar with a digital clock. Thanks for your time.

I have thought about this but I'm not sure if the server can handle the load (it would mean hundreds of thousands additional hits per day).
