perfect thanks

would it be an idea, that you could directly select in the installer menu for the future, if you want Rainlendar be installed as portable or as normal windows registry version?

There was such option in the installer earlier but since some people didn't understand what it meant and did a portable installation under the program files which obviously caused all kinds of problems so I had to remove it.

Just for my understanding:

I have to install rainlendar the normal way to /progam files/ etc.
Then I can copy the whole content of the folder to my USB stick and create an empty rainlendar2.ini file in the root folder an can use/execute that on and other computer?

Is that right?

Yes. Note that the rainlendar2.ini file must be in the same folder as the main application and not in the root of the usb stick.
