Support for Google Tasks

Posted by maxito - 2010/07/23 03:38

Hello,

I used and loved Remember the Milk, it was the first sync solution. But recently I haved switchet to Google Tasks. I could integrate it into my Gmail account and my android phone supports it! Now Rainlendar is the missing link!
Can you integrate it into further releases? Or is there already a solution?
I would love to have Gtask support in rainlendar!!

Best regards,
max

Support for Google Tasks is planned as soon as Google provides an API for it.

Hi,

I'm a Rainlendar Pro user. I too would be very interested in Google Tasks support. Hope they'll release an api soon.

Regards.

I'm waiting for this too!

Very strange that google has this weak task support in their suite.

Hi,
I'm waiting for GTasks support too. When do you implement it?

It is not (or at least there has been no progress in the Google code request). There are unofficial ways to access the tasks but they can break any time or if Google considers them abusive they can even prevent your access to the calendar altogether.

any news about gtask implementation? Many application working with gtask, why Rainlendar does not? I will be happy even when it works temporary.

The support will be added as soon as Google releases their tasks API. Using some unofficial way to get access to the tasks is a really poor solution since it can break any time and in the worst case Google could block all access to their servers from Rainlendar if they don't approve what the application does.

I don't use Google Calendar, but it seems really logic to want an API for Tasks. Now I realize how long was the wait (being the start date of the issue Jan 18, 2009)

But this comment make me laugh:

Comment 561 by vegmunky, Dec 24, 2010

A year ago, the API would have been a "thank you!" Today, it would be "about f'ing time." By year three, "too late, I'm gone."

It's a good news that finally Google made the API.

I think Google already released the API: <http://googleappsdeveloper.blogspot.com/2011/05/getting-organized-with-tasks-api.html>

First of all: Thanks for the fast Google Task support!

Is this the right place for bug reports?

Anyway: Everytime Rainlendar syncs the google tasks it brings the todo-list in front of all windows (even in front of full screen applications like VLC in fullscreen)

Greetings

I managed to reproduce the problem and it turned out that adding the OS specific tooltips for the window also bring it to top. I'll see if there is something that can be done about this or if I have to disable the tooltips altogether.

Is it possible to sync more than one Google Tasks list?

Yes, that should work. The lists can also be from different accounts.

Thanks. In "Task list name", what separator do I need to put between the different lists?

You need to create multiple calendars in Rainlendar. One for each task list you want to show.

Re:Support for Google Tasks

Thanks for the response. I have tried that, but I'm finding that the lists are jumbled up in the task display, i.e. items from List 2 appear in the middle of List 1.

Right click over a task item and set the primary sort order to "By calendar". You can also create separate task windows for each of your lists from the advanced skin options.

<http://code.google.com/intl/zh-CN/apis/tasks/>

Seems that this has now been implemented. With an increasing number of people using the Android platform, Google Tasks support is going to be of significant importance - there are many apps. that support Google Tasks on Android - but only a few that support Remember the Milk.

This might be worth implementing in a future release if there is adequate demand.
