

---

uploading rainlendar to google

Posted by tharrison - 2010/08/06 00:34

---

I see in the HELP how to download a google calendar to rainlendar, but is there a way to upload a rainlendar calendar to google? Automatically (i.e. on a schedule)?

Thanks,
Ted

---

Re: uploading rainlendar to google

Posted by Rainy - 2010/08/06 11:25

---

The events which are created to your Google calendar will be send immediatly to the Google's server. You can choose the target for the event from the "Calendars" button in the event editor.

---

Re: uploading rainlendar to google

Posted by tharrison - 2010/08/09 16:39

---

You mean if I create an event in Rainlendar it will automatically upload to my Google calendar?
Doesn't seem to work. My Google calendar is empty.
What do I need to do to make the connection?

Thanks,
Ted

---

Re: uploading rainlendar to google

Posted by Rainy - 2010/08/10 08:22

---

The event is only sent to Google calendar if you choose it as the target. By default all new events go to the local calendar. As I already mentioned you can select the target calendar from the "Calendars" button. If you haven't created a Google calendar yet into Rainlendar you can find instructions how to do that from the help file.

---

Re: uploading rainlendar to google

Posted by obscure - 2010/10/18 01:33

---

tharrison wrote:

Doesn't seem to work. My Google calendar is empty.
What do I need to do to make the connection?

Rainlendar starts with a Default calendar and your Google calendar gets added when you link to it.

When entering a new event remember to click the "Calendar" button in bottom left of the event window and select your Google calendar. Rainlendar will default to its local (default) cal if you don't select.

Note: If you want rainy to default select your Google calendar open a "New Event" dialogue. Click on "Calendar" and select your Google calendar/de-select Default, then click OK. Now go to File>Save and then just Cancel to exit the "New Event" dialogue. Next time you open a "New Event" dialogue your Google Calendar will be selected by Default.

---

Re: uploading rainlendar to google

Posted by tharrison - 2010/10/18 18:05

---

---

Thanks, that's excellent. Works fine.
Now if I could get the Google calendar to synch with the iCal on my Mac I'd be all set. :)

=====

Re: uploading rainlendar to google

Posted by obscure - 2010/10/18 22:57

---

tried this?

=====