

---

Only show the next one in a repeating event

Posted by andygrunt - 2010/08/06 11:24

---

There are a number of repeating events where I only want/need to see the next one. i.e. I don't want my calendar or events list cluttered up with multiple entries when it's only the next one I need to be aware of. Some examples would be a weekly TV show you've got a repeating entry for or a weekly meeting.

Would this be possible?

=====

Re: Only show the next one in a repeating event

Posted by Rainy - 2010/08/10 08:38

---

I'll have to think about it. I wonder if it would just cause confusion not to be able to see the events where they should be. Perhaps as an advanced setting but that would make it affect all repeating events...

=====

Re: Only show the next one in a repeating event

Posted by andygrunt - 2010/08/10 09:33

---

I used to have this when I used a Psion Organiser and never found it to be confusing. Actually I found it amazingly useful and have missed it in every type of calendar I've used since.

It would need to work on each repeating item individually though - working on all at once wouldn't be of use. I see it as a check box in each event's 'Recurrence' options page labelled as something like: 'Only show next occurrence'

On the Psion, there was a field on the 'Set Repeat' options page called 'Show' that gave the user the choice between 'All occurrences' (the default) or 'Next only'

=====