http://www.producteev.com/

_____

I'm not using this, but this seems to get more and more popular:

http://www.producteev.com/

Maybe Rainlendar could support this too?

Greets,
Simon

========================================================================

Re:http://www.producteev.com/

_____

Hi,

Since "remember the milk" is no longer free, I am using producteev which is free.

Please add a support to it  :)

Thank you.

========================================================================

Re:http://www.producteev.com/

_____

Hello, Producteev has an API that should provide integration capability similar to Remember the Milk:

https://www.producteev.com/developers.php

Could you please consider including Producteev integration in the near future? I am one of those who has also switched because I find Producteev more user and mobile-friendly.

========================================================================

Re:http://www.producteev.com/

_____

Grui wrote:
Since "remember the milk" is no longer free, I am using producteev which is free.
AFAICT, the non-pro version of "remember the milk" is still free. At least I have no problem using it...  :huh:

========================================================================