

---

Month or week view on click

Posted by JMPc8m5v - 2010/09/11 09:04

---

So I really like this new 'month view', but it's too large to be permanently placed on the desktop.

What I suggest instead is to have it pop up on the desktop when the header of the calendar is clicked.

So if you have a small calendar on the desktop, let's say the vertical one, you click on the month name and the month view slides out as a drawer. Click it again and it goes back in.

=====

Re: Month or week view on click

Posted by Rainy - 2010/09/12 03:38

---

That should be possible by editing the skin. You could do it like the color selection is done in the Chromophore skins although that requires quite a lot of work. Easier probably would be to add a button which would just toggle the visibility of the month view window. If you are not familiar with Rainlendar skins you can start by reading the skinning tutorial in the help file. After that you can check e.g. how the Chromophore or Vitrum skins are made.

=====