

---

Help moving tasks for really busy people

Posted by mad - 2006/12/15 09:30

---

I love the tool because it really helps me stay better organized. I am pretty busy and have to keep track of many events, tasks, and also other people activities. What I am getting into is when I have to move an event from one day to another, it often collides with others already scheduled for that day. I think it would be awesome for Rainlendar to warn me (other users as well of course - I am not that selfish ;) ) that task I attempt to move is overlapping with already existing on that day. The feature may be tricky but 4 possible options (radio buttons or sth):

- put as first on that day (does not affect other tasks that day)
  - earlier available time slot on that day
  - shift existing overlapping event and others to earlier time
  - shift overlapping event and others to later time
  - later available time slot on that day
  - put as the last on that day
-

Re:Help moving tasks for really busy people

Posted by Rainy - 2006/12/16 12:58

---

Some kind of note from collisions might be possible. I'd have to add support for the free/busy time in the iCalendar format. Moving the events automatically most likely is not going to be implemented as it gets quite complex with recurring events.

---