
Rainlendar & Thinkingrock GTD

Posted by aunlead - 2010/12/20 07:05

Hi,

I've been a avid user of rainlendar for years & i would like to thank you for this wonderful app.

Recently i have started following David Allen's Getting Things Done methodology and found that it works pretty well for me. I am using ThinkingRock as my GTD tool. Since i am a beginner, its rigidity has been quite helpful.

Well i'm now trying to sync my schedule across my work, home & phone and find it quite hard!!. Since thinkingrock doesn't run on maemo (my phone's OS), i have decided to use google calendar as a common sync store. Thinking rock synchronizes (its actually just export, as its just 1 way!) its schedule to a iCal file. I thought i shall use rainlendar to read that iCal & then sync with google calendar but then realized that's not possible - as rainlendar separates both & treats them as different calendars!

Any work around for this?

=====

Re: Rainlendar & Thinkingrock GTD

Posted by Rainy - 2010/12/21 11:01

You probably need some 3rd party synchronization tool for this. You can try e.g. GCALDaemon and see if it fits your purposes.

=====