Porting category colours into google calendar?

I just saw this article at lifehacker and thought that it would be cool and a whole lot easier if I could do the same.

Has anyone done it before or know how to do it? I don't care if I have to manually set-up the colours in Google Calendar.

In Google calendar the colors are defined per calendar instead per event like in Rainlendar. This means that you would have to create a separate calendar for each different category.
