

---

rainlendar shines through

Posted by petrik75 - 2011/03/25 12:15

---

Hi,

at first please excuse me because my english is very bad. I am not a native english speaker and hope that you understand what I mean:

I use Rainlendar Pro 2.81 64-bit on WIN 7. I have set rainlendar to be displayed only on the desktop. Occasionally it happens, that shines through Rainlendar. For example I will delete a file that is on my desktop - (see screenshot). In Rainlendar 2.6 this does not happen.

<http://www.abload.de/thumb/zwischenablage-1zuba.png>

Is this a known bug and what can I do?

best regards

Petrik75

=====

Re: rainlendar shines through

Posted by Jorge_Luis - 2011/03/25 13:29

---

Your clicks go through Rainlendar's window?

or
The Rainlendar's window appears on top when you are trying to do something?

=====

Re:rainlendar shines through

Posted by petrik75 - 2011/03/25 13:33

---

Yes, the Rainlendar's window appears on top when I am trying to do something - but only on the desktop, for example when I want to delete a file on my desktop.

=====

Re:rainlendar shines through

Posted by Rainy - 2011/03/26 06:49

---

The calendar isn't tied to the desktop window anymore when the On Desktop is enabled so it can come in front of other windows in certain situations. Setting the position to On Bottom might fix the problem but it will also make Rainlendar to disappear when you show the desktop.

=====