This is beta version! It has not been tested.

Changes:

- o The application crashed if a backup file marked as hidden was overwritten.
- o The event dialog sometimes remained open permanently if "Keep editor open until writing succeeds" was enabled.
- o "Show no icons" hid also the today marker.
- o Restoring didn't change the settings to the original values properly.
- o Week number support for vertical and horizontal calendar layouts was removed by mistake.
- o Added better controls for the variables in the skin settings.
- o Added an advanced setting to define the first and last shown hours in the day and week views.
- o Dragging the schedule items can be cancelled with esc key.
- o The event text wasn't shown in day and week views if the event started outside the visible area.
- o Added reverse option for the to do list sorting.
- o Added support for multiple alarms for the native iCalendar format and Google Calendar.
- o Deleting event with visible alarm from the Manager left an empty alarm window visible.

Are the available skins sorted alphabetically in this new beta?
It looks like.

Since installing the latest beta, whenever I create a new event, it appears complete with 5 alarms already set to 15 mins before the (untimed) event.

The alarms are read incorrectly from the template. I'll fix that in the next build.
