Google Error: Unable to download the calendars

Hi ... for the past few days I've had an intermittent problem downloading my Google Calendar. I'm running Rainlendar Pro Version 2.9 (b106) 32 bit Build on May 15 2011 under Windows 7 64 bit Pro

The error message is: Unable to download the calendars.

Server returned result: (0) 400 Bad Request.

Moved Temporarily Moved Temporarily The document has moved here. Invalid max-results

If I try again after a few minutes, it will sometimes update normally. I was curious whether you might be able to parse the temporary location (doesn't show up in the error message, but it looks like it's trying to pass it along.)

If you send the Rainlendar's debug log of the situation to the support address I can try to check what is causing the problem.

Hello,

I have the same error.
Is there any solution??

Thanks.

same here

edit: the strange problem is: All events are still shown even if I have NOT selected to keep a local copy. So obviously rainlendar CAN download the events, but somehow still shows this error :) I had the message "bandlimit exceeded" today also, but only once.

Hello,

I am getting this....started a couple days ago...no passwords have changed and i still have access to the calendar...but:

Unable to download the calendars.
Server returned result: (0) 500 Internal Server Error

Love your product...been using it for a long time...great stuff...

anyway...any ideas?

Thank you for your help

Can you run Rainlendar in the debug mode and send the debug log to me (use the support email address and include a link to this forum thread).

Have got the same problem also, it is only Google's calendar which is causing problems.

Any ideas what the issue might be?

There is a separate thread about the error 500.
