Hi. I'm very anticipating the new Windows 8 version, and i'm asking myself if you would like to create a metrostyle Rainlendar version?

Have you ever thought about it or don't you want to create a different version for windows 8?

Creating a completely new version just for Windows 8 is not really an option but I've been thinking about implementing a today view or something similar as a Metro tile if that's possible.

Any News about a today view or anything similiar, about this topic?

I have got a second question. What would you recommend, to sync the Notes in Rainlendar with an Android Phone?

I took a look at the Metro developer documentation and Microsoft seems to be working very hard to prevent any access from the Metro apps to the desktop apps. So, creating a today view for the Metro doesn't seem to be possible unless Microsoft changes their policies and opens the APIs.
