New user questions

Posted by jbacinti - 2012/07/14 10:03

1. I see on the website a Dayview but I can't find it as a setting or option. Help.

2. Is there a way to mark an Event as Completed so that it still is displayed?

Thanks.

Welcome to the forum, jbacinti.

1) To use the "Daily View" you need to right click -> options... -> skins -> advanced>>>

Open Shadow4 on the left side (available skins), select Daily View and click on the right pointing black arrow. Now you will see the Daily View as a window on the right side (active skins)

2) Events can't be marked as completed, but Tasks yes. If you're using the Task/ToDo list, you can click on the white circle to mark it as completed. Also, in the same Active Skins section as 1), you can change the setting... for ToDo list to hide/show completed, cancelled and future tasks.

Thanks for the help on the Day View. My Day View seems to be a bit narrow as the time display seems to be missing most of the hour. Is there a way to enlarge it?

I assume by Tasks you mean the To Do List.

To change the size, click on "settings..." for the Daily View (select it on the Active Skins list option) and then change its width and height. (There are more sizes to change in this panel).

To change the start and end time, right click -> options -> advanced -> scheduler -> first shown hour and last shown hour.

Yes, task and to do are used equally.

Thanks but changing the Day View width only increases the overall size of the window, the time displayed is still outside the left margin/edge. See attached screen shot.

I can't see any picture.

The one you attached is below 1280x1024 and 300 KB in size? That's the limit of this forum. Or you can try uploading it to another side and link here.

Is this what you're looking for?

No it's not a picture. I can't figure out how to send a picture. I think I'll just give up.

I will try to guide to the way of attaching images:
( sorry if this looks too childish :P )

- On the bottom-right side of this message, click on the button named "Reply" (not "Quick Reply")
- Write your post
- Below the writing zone there are 2 buttons, the first to attach an image (1280x1024 max or 300 KB max. Try it to be a png or jpg instead or bmp), and the second to attach a file (zip, txt,... or 120 KB max). If you're using a monitor with a resolution of ~1900 don't copy the full screen, cut only to the daily view window. :)

When you have your image, open it with the button for images, select the file, and then click at the right, where it says

"img" between square brackets.

Unless I can see what's your problem I couldn't help you. :(

Now it makes sense. This is what I see on my PC screen. You can best view it using MS Paint to see how I can't see the hour of the day on the left of the screen. I'll send another reply with an image of my settings.

I'm trying to attach a 29kb jpg file but the forum keeps telling me that it exceeds the 1280 pixel limit. So let's see if this works. http://www.rainlendar.net/cms/images/fbfiles/images/my\_day\_view2.jpg

Ohhh... now I see what's your problem.
This is related with the time format.

Unfortunately, this size is fixed (unless some code editing). But you can change the option "Day view time format" (look at my image) with another format, e.g.:
%H:%M
