
\\"Sleep time\\" for google sync after boot or hiberna

Hello,
i have the problem that internet connection is not yet done and rainlendar tries to synchronize after booting or coming from hibernate mode. Therefore the first call does not work and i have to wait 15 minutes for next request (or do it manually).

An option for setting a "sleep time" for first google sync would be great.

Regards
Christopher

There already have two options, "Reload delay after resume (ms)" and "Network access delay after startup (ms)", you can find them in Options... > Advanced.
