some more praise

Posted by Ace_NoOne - 2006/10/31 18:13

_____

Hey there,

I'm really impressed with Rainlendar2; while the previous versions had already been very good, they also felt a little like beta versions.
This version, on the other hand, seems rock-solid, and it's very shiny as well (I also like the option dialog's style).
I also love the fact that there's now a Linux version as well - that'll make it much easier for me to finally make the switch to Ubuntu...

There's only one remnant that still bugs me: The snooze function. It should really be possible to set a custom timer for when the reminder should start nagging you again.
Like, for birthdays, I have the reminder set to 14 days in advance - but I would also like to be reminded about seven days in advance again.

Anyways, thanks a lot for this great release, Rainy!

==

Re:some more praise

Posted by Rainy - 2006/11/01 13:15

_____

At the moment the snooze time is not saved to anywhere so it will reset if you refresh or restart the calendar. But I'll try to think some solution to this.

==