Support for wlc and rainlendar

Posted by mortenvs - 2012/10/26 07:42

———————————————————————

Hi

Been searching everywhere but just cannot seem to find any sensible answer or surgestion to solve my problem.

I like the Windows Live Calendar and Rainlendar alot, but I can't get them to sync! The only way to export my WLC is via a link - but Rainlendar only accepts .ics.

Is there a way to either ad a link to Rainlendar, or to create an .ics file from a link?

Best regards
Morten

==

Re: Support for wlc and rainlendar

Posted by Jorge_Luis - 2012/10/26 08:58

———————————————————————

Welcome to the forum, Morten.

If you're using the Lite version, isn't possible.
Using the Pro version, you can access a shared network calendar using webcal protocol.

Here are some references to export from WLC to an ICS file: http://help.outlook.com/en-us/140/gg603692.aspx

Remember to try before you buy! You can install and test the Pro version before you make the decision. The Pro version is fully functional even without the license except that events from network, Outlook and Google calendars will have string in front of them.

==

Re: Support for wlc and rainlendar

Posted by mortenvs - 2012/10/27 06:34

———————————————————————

Thanks :-)

I've downloaded the pro version (no license yet - want to see it work) and added three calendars now - but none of them have appeared. Could it take a while to load them, or is it rather that something is wrong?

==

Re: Support for wlc and rainlendar

Posted by mortenvs - 2012/10/27 11:53

———————————————————————

Got it all working - great!

Only think bothering me is that all my calendars imported from WLC are displayed with the same colour. It's a bit difficult to differ one form the other... Is there not a way to alter an entire calendar rather than only changing a single date?

==

Re: Support for wlc and rainlendar

Posted by Jorge_Luis - 2012/10/27 21:04

———————————————————————

Perfect! I don't have WLC, so it's good to know it works.

To show the calendars with different colors, you can in options -> calendars -> select one by one -> below, in options, change "visual category" to a predefined one or you can create a new one. To create, go to options -> skins -> categories... -> add...

==

Re: Support for wlc and rainlendar
Posted by mortenvs - 2012/10/28 03:07

_____

Great!

Thanks alot :laugh:

==