
An option to temporary disable a recurring event

Posted by wroot - 2012/12/08 07:36

Sometimes i want to turn off some recurring events, but i do not wish to delete them, because i may need to enable them later and i don't want to create it again from the scratch. Would be handy to have an option to disable events.

OK, i have found a workaround for this myself. Just delete the event from the event list and then choose All following. Then it will set the duration date to the past date and it won't show up in future, but the event will still be in the Manager so one can set it again to Forever and enable it in such manner.
