
Synching Outlook to Google calendar via Rainlendar

Posted by piuscmi - 2013/02/04 17:44

Since Google has stopped its support for its Outlook to Google calendar syncing application (as you know on 30th January 2013 they stopped support for Google Sync), is there anyway Rainlendar can do that job?

I enter appointments into Outlook and they are displayed by Rainlendar on my desktop. I used to use Google sync application to sync my Outlook appointments with my Google calendar which I can access on my android smartphone.

How nice it would be, if what I enter into the Outlook gets to Rainlendar, and from Rainlendar, they get to Google calendar and from Google calendar to the phone! May be wishful thinking or dream!

Since you have developed this amazing Rainlendar, I am sure your brain will develop such a feature to it one day soon, if it is not there already.
If it is there already, please let me know.

With best wishes. Pius

=====

Re: Synching Outlook to Google calendar via Rainlendar

Posted by Rainy - 2013/02/08 02:11

Unfortunately that is not possible since Rainlendar keeps the events from different calendars separate. You would have to use some 3rd party synchronization tool to keep your Outlook and Google calendar in sync.

=====