
Rainlendar creates second icon for tasks

Posted by Sagehorn - 2013/03/24 10:27

Hi guys

Im using rainlendar - fantastic tool, thx for this - in combination with google calendar. Now its the first time, i'm a bit clueless. Here the facts:

- I'm using a main-calendar, a birthday-calendar and the google holidays-calendar

- I guess the tasks are part of the maincalendar. (Actually im not sure, because they appear as an own calendar in google calendars. On the other hand, in rainlendar i cant select them as a single calendar. Instead i can select the tasks in every calendar? :blink:)

- In Rainlendar i've set the plain-icon for the whole holiday-calendar. For the birthday-calendar, all dates have a present-icon. The Task icon is standard (dot-icon) by default.

Okay, my problem is now, that all my tasks also have that plain icon behind the standard dot-icon. When i reset the plain-icons, all tasks went directy into the google-calendar trashcan, lol.

I think, thats all to explain. Seems, like the Tasks are somehow connected to the holiday-calendar, but why? Maybe you have an idea?

EDIT: At the moment, when i change the icon, that second icon actually disappears. But after actualizing RL, everything is like before again.

=====

Re: Rainlendar creates second icon for tasks

Posted by Rainy - 2013/03/25 04:42

Google Tasks are completely separate from Google Calendar. I probably should separate them also in Rainlendar. Anyway, you can create a separate calendar for your tasks by setting the Google calendar name to "" in the Options->Calendars. That way you can have the task list without an icon if that's the way you like it.

=====

Re: Rainlendar creates second icon for tasks

Posted by Sagehorn - 2013/03/25 08:43

If I rename my maincalendar to , i get a separate task calendar? I dont see any change by doing that. (In google calendars there is no way to edit the task-"calendar" btw. No link etc.)

I guess you meant, there is a way to separate the tasks from the main calendar. For this isn't it necessary to copy the main calendar somehow to delete just the calendar entries?

edit: Im not sure, if the tasks are actually disconnected from the calendar. I cant even copy the single events into another calendar, just to another list..

edit2: okay, i actually got it. :) I created a new calendar and renamed it to . In RL it automatically had the name of the task list. All other calendars had in the list entry. Dont know why, but i think thats what you wanted me to do, not? ;)

=====