

---

Yahoo5Weather

Posted by galdino - 2013/05/25 07:22

---

(Translated from Italian)

After cleaning the computer so deep because of the presence of malicious code I found myself with the weather window that marks two days. Previously it marked 5. I know that long ago had been made a new plugin for this and I had to date. I had saved the downloaded file and now can not find it among the various answers on the topic weather. Can you tell me where I can find to reinstall it (and save it)? Thank you for your help.

Greetings. <http://www.rainlendar.net/cms/images/fbfiles/images/desktop-20b001fba9d115c19e870e1f1dc318ab.JPG>

---

Re: Yahoo5Weather

Posted by anoob - 2013/05/25 08:06

---

You can search "Yahoo5Weather" then will get some posted about it.

And it was released on <http://customize.org/rainlendar/skins/91083>

---

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by galdino - 2013/05/25 11:17

---

(Translated from Italian)

The research I had done on this topic but there are so many threads and I could not understand what was the right one. However, the file was installed before Yahoo5Weather.r2skin, that I found, but the effect is that the image of my previous message. What I have suggested is a folder with other folders and a file. Even with that, I copied the folder admin/.rainlendar2/skin, the effect is the same, as you can see.

In the Options / Themes I do not think there are particular settings to do besides write your preferred location.

Thanks for your attention.

Greetings. <http://www.rainlendar.net/cms/images/fbfiles/images/desk2.JPG>

---

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by anoob - 2013/05/25 11:54

---

Ohh! Sorry, because I have not activated Yahoo5Weather previously, so have not found the problem.

It is because Yahoo had change the code, that Yahoo5Weather refered, as only two days forecast.

So, We seems need to find new source of weather information.

---

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by anoob - 2013/05/28 02:06

---

OK, Since the original data source is no longer provides five-days forecast, so I change the data source (it is Yahoo!Weather's reference source).

Now, the work had done, You can re-download it :

<http://customize.org/rainlendar/skins/91083>

---

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by galdino - 2013/05/28 02:59

---

(Translated from Italian)

Are you sure that the new version works? Because here I can not see anything and the window remains on "update ..." as you can see.

---

And 'correct that the files are in a folder and not a single file (type. r2skin)?
Thank you for your kind answers.
Greetings.

---

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by galdino - 2013/05/28 03:03

---

galdino wrote:

(Translated from Italian)

Are you sure that the new version works? Because here I can not see anything and the window remains on "update ..."
as you can see.

And 'correct that the files are in a folder and not a single file (type. r2skin)?

Thank you for your kind answers.

Greetings. <http://www.rainlendar.net/cms/images/fbfiles/images/meteo.JPG>

---

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by anoob - 2013/05/28 03:30

---

galdino wrote:

(Translated from Italian)

Are you sure that the new version works? Because here I can not see anything and the window remains on "update ..."
as you can see.

And 'correct that the files are in a folder and not a single file (type. r2skin)?

Thank you for your kind answers.

Greetings.

Sorry, I recheck it then found: sometimes the data of source is "null". I found that the source, now I reference, is very unstable. It can not reported the "Now Weather" of certain cities. I will back to the old source to get the "Now Weather".

And, it is a single file: Yahoo5Weather.r2skin, but sometimes you will got Yahoo5Weather.zip, please change .zip to
.r2skin

---

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by Shearerdk - 2013/05/28 12:05

---

i need some help.

i cant get mine to work.

i have this url: <http://weather.yahoo.com/denmark/midtjylland/tranbjerg-j-29306354/>

i have tryet tranbjerg-j-29306354 and only 29306354

it keep saying 'cant find city name' ?

---

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by anoob - 2013/05/28 12:56

---

Welcome to the forum, Shearerdk.

Sorry, I also can not find how to make it work.

And, this skin exist some wrong, I'm debugging.

---

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by anoob - 2013/05/29 03:40

---

To galdino :

Now, I use original data-source to get data of "Now Weather", and use new data-source to get data of "5-days Weather", please re-download and hope no more errors.

To Shearerdk :

I still can not directly use the name of your city, I always get this name "Aarhus"; but I can use "woeid" to obtain the relevant weather data (same with Aarhus); Please re-download and use (input) "woeid:29306354".

=====

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by galdino - 2013/05/29 06:42

---

To galdino :

Now, I use original data-source to get data of "Now Weather", and use new data-source to get data of "5-days Weather", please re-download and hope no more errors.

(Translated from Italian)

Ok, I installed the new file and returned to business as usual. It works fine.

Thank you.

Greetings.

=====

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by Shearerdk - 2013/05/29 07:40

---

anoob wrote:

To galdino :

Now, I use original data-source to get data of "Now Weather", and use new data-source to get data of "5-days Weather", please re-download and hope no more errors.

To Shearerdk :

I still can not directly use the name of your city, I always get this name "Aarhus"; but I can use "woeid" to obtain the relevant weather data (same with Aarhus); Please re-download and use (input) "woeid:29306354".

thanks. 2 ques.

1. where can i edit the langues file for Yahoo5Weather ? i need the tonight to be 'I after'
  2. under the temp. now there is some english 'light rain shower' can i change it to danish ?
- =====

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by anoob - 2013/05/29 12:44

---

Shearerdk wrote:

thanks. 2 ques.

1. where can i edit the langues file for Yahoo5Weather ? i need the tonight to be 'I after'
2. under the temp. now there is some english 'light rain shower' can i change it to danish ?

Most of Yahoo5Weather's strings are directly displayed the information within network weather data-source.

Although You can through "translate" to convert them into your local language, but not recommended.

Because there is too many type of climate, translate them is too time-consuming, and need other 3rd party app to complete.

The translate-file is at "\\locale\\rainlendar2.po".

---

=====

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by anoob - 2014/12/10 23:56

---

Latest version: 2014-12-11

<http://customize.org/rainlendar/skins/91083>

Thanks Lou for provided the way of new MSN-Weather API.

(http://www.rainlendar.net/cms/index.php?option=com\_kunena&Itemid=42&func=view&catid=9&id=17325&limit=6&limitstart=72#21950)

Histories:

(2014-12-11) Change the URL of Location_Search_Engine. (2nd)

(2014-11-29) Since the 5-days forecast's source direct use JS-script, change to Weather_Channel as source, and which support more location.

(2014-10-05) Fixed: Only one temperature issue, Disable text formatting, Change the URL of Location_Search_Engine.

(2014-01-08) Change Location_Search_Engine, now support fuzzy search; change data source back to original.

(2013-05-29) Since the original data source is no longer provides five-days forecast (a few days later, it provides again), so change the data source, and modify some code; Add support "woeid".

(2013-04-04) If city-name contains space will cause something wrong, Fixed.

(2012-09-13) Initial version.

=====

Re:Yahoo5Weather

Posted by Lou - 2014/12/11 16:54

---

;)

=====