
Synchronizing Multiple Computers

Is it possible to link up two rainlendars via internet?

For example, I have rainlendar on my desktop, laptop, and work computer. Life would be easier if I changed something on my work computer, and it made a global update to all other computers without having to manually input the information.

Recently i purchised an datalink-cable that i just started using between my desktop and laptop. It works like Windows Explorer, just move or copy. Perhaps yuo can use the same. It made life easier. ;)
