

---

Rainlendar Auto update

Posted by Mark R - 2013/08/07 14:53

---

I'm a huge fan and really have found no issues...simply works as intended for me. I love that!

I have searched the forums and maybe just missed it, but are there plans to offer an auto update feature for Rainlendar when you release new versions?

I am a lazy toad :silly: and would like to see Rainlendar update itself, like Chrome and FF does.

Keep up the great work!

=====

Re:Rainlendar Auto update

Posted by anoob - 2013/08/10 22:09

---

Welcome to the forum, Mark R.

Although Rainlendar can not update itself automatically, but it can notify you when there is a new version released.

You can enable this feature from :

Right-Click main calendar (open context menu) > Options > Advanced > "Check for updates" > select "Normal" (only the stable version) or "Beta" (only the beta version).

http://www.rainlendar.net/cms/images/fbfiles/images/2013\_08\_10\_1.png

=====

Re:Rainlendar Auto update

Posted by Rainy - 2013/08/13 12:35

---

There is an auto-updater in my backlog but I haven't got around to implement it yet (it's a quite low priority task anyway).

=====

Re:Rainlendar Auto update

Posted by Mark R - 2013/08/15 05:12

---

Thanks. Had missed that option.

=====

Re:Rainlendar Auto update

Posted by Mark R - 2013/08/15 05:24

---

No worries. I have 3 laptops that I use and it would just be convenient for me. It's certainly not a big problem to update. My other thought was that some people have family members/friends that have recommended Rainlendar to them and installed/set up for them and they don't really have the where-with-all to up date on their own. lol. No biggie really! I have one family member that can barely manage to use email...to d/l and install an update for anything is a major undertaking. ;)

=====