Howdy folks!

First of, brilliant software. Tried numerous calendars and stuff, but none has worked as much the way I wanted it to do as rainlendar. Neat!

It looks that your graphics adapter doesn't support transparent windows correctly. Try updating your display drivers and see if that helps. You can also disable the transparency in Rainlendar's settings (Options->Advanced->Transparency type) and switch to a more solid skin.

Thanks, I will try both of your solution.
Question about the transparency type however..... which one if off?
Native, Region or Copy? :) it's on Native now.

Both region and copy disable the transparency. They just work a bit different each so you can try them both.

I did try Region and since then I haven't had the problem again, so it seems to work now. :) Thanks mate!
