
upload problem google calendar

Posted by jpvanoostrum - 2013/09/11 05:28

problem description:

I use railandar with my google calendar

Any change i make to the rainlendar desktop callender will not shown in (and most likely not be uploaded to) the google calendar; changes i make to the google calender will show up on the rain;andar desktop.

The error message i get is:(tranxlated from dutch language)

Google error (name of google calendar)!

Could not upload the event

Answer from server: (65) 302 Sending the data requires a rewind thst failed.

Moved Temporarily Moved Temporarily The document has moved here.

OK

A screenshot of the errormessage is attached.

The railandar logfile is also attached.

By the way I have rainlendar running on two (home) PC's (one with the older version 2.9 and one with the most recent version 2.1.1.

With both version i do get the same errors.

Please can someone help me out with this strange problem?

Same issue, whichseems to have started yesterday. I also cannot create new events from Rainlendar. If i create an event on the Google side of things Rainlendar will pick it up.

Please upgrade to the latest beta version and see if that fixes the problem. The beta also has support for the "Google Calendar (v3)" so try that as well. If the beta doesn't work either please run Rainlendar in the debug mode and send the debug log to Rainlendar's support address and include a link to this forum thread.

It looks to have started working again on its own. Perhaps Google was having issues.

I will try out the new beta version on one of my machines later to check out the new calendar v3.

Thanks!

Have the same problem and I can only create events at the google calendar, too. Otherwise they are removed after refreshing RL. I'll try the beta if it won't work by itself soon.

I could also deactivate error messages, but I think this is a pretty stupid idea :)

edit: Okay, wasn't able to take it any longer. Beta seems to solve the problem. But i'll better be glad later ;)

The BETA version indeed solved the problem; noticed some tiny issues when opening the option menu, but assume that will soon be covered.

Hope the final 2.12 version will arrive soon.

Another one here. I use the last version (Pro). I'm in Spain.

It started yesterday. When I insert a new event, it shows up in the calendar and then disappears after a one or two seconds. It doesn't upload to Google and of course won't show up on my Android phone.

Please fix this. I won't use any Beta, I paid for a full stable version.

Thanks.

Terrible! I'm working with Rainlendar daily. Please fix your problem soon!! A beta is no solution for your Problem!

Bests from Germany!

Exactly!

beta fixes original problem BUT tasks are not working. annoying as well!!!

tasks are not working with google calender (v3) and also not with google calender (deprecated)

Hi,

This problem disappeared and now is back for some days. No synchronization with Google Calendar. If I write an appointment on my phone, it doesn't show up in the laptop, and the other way round.

No solution yet? This is really bad, the calendar syncing is absolutely necessary to me.

Is the Beta working for someone to cure the problem? It doesn't work for me at all. Not just the synchronization, but Rainlendar beta doesn't work at all. It gets closed after showing a window saying technical error data.

Please solve this ASAP.

You need to tell what the exact error message is when you start the beta version. I cannot help you otherwise.

Do you get some error when you create a new event to your Google Calendar from Rainlendar or what exactly happens?

Rainy, sorry for the unfair rant. I noticed that Google Calendar it is not even synchronizing from my phone. If I add some new appointment, it won't show up in Google Calendar.

So, it is not Rainlendar, it is Google Calendar.

Am I the only one?
