
error while synchronising with google calender

Posted by birgit123 - 2013/09/14 16:36

I have just bought rainlendar pro 2.11.1. All worked fine for some days. Now I get the following error - attached in a file - each time I try to add an event or change an event in rainlendar pro 2.11.1 on my Ubuntu computer. The events are not synchronized to google calender.

Interestingly it works the other way. That means from google calender (when I update or change an event there) to rainlendar pro.

I uninstalled and reinstalled rainlendar pro but it doesn't work. I also have the licence and paid the 9 bucks...

That's really annoying. Sync is not working.

Please advice... thanks in advance...

I fixed this by installing beta version

BUT: the beta version has another problem:
tasks are not working! I don't see them...

dear rainlendar-team,
please let me know about the release date of the stable version. and please provide a fix for the not working tasks in the mean time... thank you...

thanks to really good and fast support I got a working installation now:

1. cure: install the beta version given above
2. cure: to make tasks working do the following:

The tasks were moved to another plugin so you need to create a second calendar for the tasks. Click the "Add..." button in Options->Calendars and choose "Google Tasks" as the calendar type.

3. cure: if you have problems with "google calender (v3)" like me choose "google calender (deprecated)". This works fine for me.

I informed the rainlendar team:

There seems to be a major bug in google calender (v3). because when I use that only some events from google calender are shown in my rainlendar beta 2.12. 32bit on ubuntu. please don't release calender (v3) like it is now...

Hope everythink is fixed now! And hopefully the stable version is released soon.... I just love rainlendar and hope they will fix that soon....
