I think to be very an useful function.
Is it implemented in the last 2.12(b136) version?

That's not it :/

I add this window but it's still don't shows itself on windows startup (rainlendar startup) :/
So where's is that functionality "Show all today's messages at windows startup" which was very simply in Rainlendar 0.22 ?

I have just a few days ago found a case will cause this problem. Maybe can call it "bug", wait author to fix.
(http://www.rainlendar.net/cms/index.php?option=com\_kunena&Itemid=42&func=view&catid=3&id=20810)

You must enable "Show today's events on tray when Rainlendar is started" from Options->General, and enable "Show tray icon" from Options->Advanced.

Noooooooo :(
I hate "tray" icons :/
Every little program wants to be in a tray :/ So tray looks like a trash :/
As a standard I set during every installation: no quick launch and no tray icon :/

So you saying that there's no way to set it simply like in 0.22 version ?

The tray icon visibility should not affect the today window. I'll fix that.

@Rhotax, this functionality is not related to the tray icon. You'll get a window on startup which shows the events and tasks. I saw this "today window" but only when I manually activate it from menu.
