Events without time? How to get them back?

Hi,

I have installed Rainlendar Light 2.12 over one of previous versions of Rainlendar Light (I don't know which version I had before) on Windows XP sp3. Right click on specific day on calendar and select "New event" from menu list. Event window opens, I can set new event, set date, BUT there is no more time (hour and minutes) to set. How to get back "TIME" in events?

Thanks.

When you set event, did you see a checkbox "All day event", uncheck it, then you can set hour and minutes

I wish there was an option to go to previous behavior, when you had to check all day event to set it to all day. 99% of my events are tied to time, so it is always an additional click for me..

Yes, I totally agree. Most of the events are time based - like hour at least. Is there any way to set default behavior to display selecting hours and minutes by default.

Open new event dialog, set it as you want (uncheck All day event, set category), then go to Templates menu and save it as a template, then in the same menu set it as default. From now on when starting new event it will have All day event unchecked and category set to one you have selected in the template (not the last one used). This advice was really handy and now i don't have to change category to default after i used something else:)

I was able to get older version of Shadow4 skin (1.10), but i'm still not sure about this. As i don't want to lose some new features which may come out later, or maybe i will have issues in the future because of using older skin version. Also it bugs me that i have to do manual stuff if i do reinstall of a program :)

@wroot, you can rename the skin file so that it doesn't get overwritten when you upgrade Rainlendar. You can also just use the alarm window from the old skin and keep everything else from the latest version so you get the new features. The advanced skin options allows you to choose skin windows from other skins too.

Hm. Didn't know skins are so modular. Great. Then i'll just use older skin for Alarm window. Thanks.

Just now realized i was replying on someone else's thread and not mine :D
