Opacity causes the text harder to read.

I find it hard to see when i set the opacity to 50%. What is the point of opacity when you cant read anything. There should be a separate option which allows all the text to be darker.

I would love to buy this software very soon. <http://www.rainlendar.net/cms/images/fbfiles/images/untitled.jpg>

It's not possible to make only a part of the window transparent. Or it is but would have to edit the skin itself and change the opacity value of the background.

You need to edit the skin's xml files or modify the images that the skin uses. You can find instructions how to uncompress the skin from the Rainlendar's help. The opacity of the images is defined in the elements.xml file at least in the build in skins.
