Everything is clear from the screenshot.

There seems to be some kind of character encoding issue with the licensee name. If you contact the Rainlendar's sales address with your license details (name/email/date of purchase) I can create a new license for you. Please also include a link to this forum thread.

Thanks, I'll do it. It seems that the license was created on Windows under strange encoding. Do I replace the license that I have with a new one without any subsequent problems?
