
msvcr71.dll

Posted by Zall - 2007/02/07 13:23

Hello guys!

when i try to start rainlendar it say that it can't open because it can't find msvcr71.dll, well i looked around in the other topics and they said something about updating to .NET Framework 2.0, but i have updated to version 3.0, does that require something or have anybody got this to work the .NET Framework 3.0??

thanks on forehand

Alexander

Re:msvcr71.dll

Posted by Rainy - 2007/02/07 14:27

The .Net framework isn't really needed; just the msvcr71.dll but for some reason Microsoft doesn't distribute it alone. You can get the missing system dll e.g. from dll-files. See the FAQ for details.

Re:msvcr71.dll

Posted by Zall - 2007/02/07 15:02

it's just strange cause i have five different... :blink:
but otherwise... well it worked with the .dll file, that's going to be a thanks for the help dude! :woohoo:

Post edited by: Zall, at: 2007/02/07 15:11
