

---

Adding events to Exchange Calendar. Showing is OK.

Posted by bbanerd - 2007/02/20 21:18

---

Hi. New user here.

I have successfully installed Pro and got it to show events from my company Exchange calendar.

However I can only add events using my Exchange web interface. If I try to add events locally in Rainlendar the "OK" button in the event editing window stays greyed out.

Should I be able to do this and if so could it be due to the way I have the underlying Outlook account configured?

Thanks: Brad

.

---

Re:Adding events to Exchange Calendar. Showing is OK.

Posted by Rainy - 2007/02/21 11:59

---

Currently the Outlook support is one way only meaning that it's possible to read the events from Outlook but it's not possible to write anything back to it.

---

Re:Adding events to Exchange Calendar. Showing is

Posted by tunix - 2007/02/23 12:14

---

Hi Brad

bbanerd wrote:

I have successfully installed Pro and got it to show events from my company Exchange calendar.

WOW! How did you do that? That's exactly what I'm looking for for months! All I can get is getting rainlendar to show my local calendar, not the one from Exchange.

Can you please tell me/us how you got it to work!?

thanks a lot tunix

---

Re:Adding events to Exchange Calendar. Showing is

Posted by Rainy - 2007/02/26 09:44

---

There shouldn't be any difference in showing a local calendar or one from Exchange (or well, public calendars do not work). Just select the correct profile and messagestore from the settings. If it doesn't work check the Rainlendar's log for possible error messages.

---

Re:Adding events to Exchange Calendar. Showing is

Posted by tunix - 2007/02/26 10:10

---

Rainy wrote:
(or well, public calendars do not work)

oh ok, that is what I was looking for....

