ZIP (portable) release osted by Ace_NoOne - 2006/11/01 16:44
liya,
d greatly appreciate if there also was a ZIP release for those of us who hate installers. his would have the added advantage of making Rainlendar truly portable - as for future versions, it could be update rithout having to resort to an installer again.	∍d
tw: I've noticed that Rainlendar creates a few registry keys - is this really necessary? After all, Rainlendar doesn't equire any file associations or such (I bet I'm not the only one who hates it when apps store settings in the registry	y)
Re:ZIP (portable) release osted by Rainy - 2006/11/02 13:08 ctually it does need file associations. I don't like the registry either which is the reason why all the settings are written ini-file.	en to you uncheck all the options in the installer it is basically the same as unzipping the archive to the destination folder houldn't do any changes to the registry then.	r. It
nd there is always the Universal Extractor
Re:ZIP (portable) release osted by Ace_NoOne - 2006/11/05 12:38
hanks for the info, I'll look into that!
Re:ZIP (portable) release osted by Ace_NoOne - 2007/01/05 10:14
just noticed that you've added a "Portable" option in the installer; thanks for that!
ost edited by: Ace_NoOne, at: 2007/01/05 10:15

Re:ZIP (	(portable)	) release
Posted by moi	tonato - 2007/0	1/29 06:34

Just to thank for the "Portable" option too.

;)