Old features

I suppose I can request these as 'new' features:

Being able to set the snooze time for alarms (maybe being able to specify this when snoozing an alarm would make it a new feature).

Being able to hide certain categories from the calendar and/or event list.

Being able to group the windows together.

Here's a new one: builing in (better) anti-aliasing into the re-sizing of skins. At least the skin should look fairly OK when sizing it down.

You can set the snooze time from the alarm's context menu.

Hiding categories and grouping the windows are planned.

And so is antialiasing support too (also for rotating images so you can do analog clocks in the future).
