
local copy of Network-Calendar

Posted by Ennox - 2006/11/03 04:31

If there is no Internet connection, but I'm using Network-Calendar than I get an error and no Events will be displayed.

My Suggestion is:
if no Internet connection exists
make a local copy of Network-Calendar and use this copy to display the events.

So I can use my calendar although there is no
Internet connection.

I hope you understand my problem ;-)

Post edited by: Ennox, at: 2006/11/03 14:55

Re:local copy of Network-Calendar

Posted by Supering - 2006/11/05 08:56

I have the same 'problem'. I use this excellent Rainlendar program also on my laptop and this is not always connected to the internet
