No category icons on certain calendar elements?

I want to prevent category icons from being applied on top of certain types of calendar elements.

For example, I define a category icon for the Anniversary category. I want to be able to define, say, the weekends element in my calendar in some way that will prevent this Anniversary icon (and all other category icons) from being applied on top of the day numbers. Maybe something like a `nocategoryoverlay="1"` attribute...

Can I do this now in some different fashion or is this a feature that can be added?

I could take a look if it would be possible to redefine the categories inside the calendar's subelements (, , ...). That way you should be able to remove the icons from the weekends (or make them appear some different way).
