

---

Outlook data

Posted by mikewazowski - 2006/11/10 01:55

---

Hi,

I'm a happy user of rainlendar (old version).

Now I installed the new Rainlendar2. But I can't find the plugin to show my Outlook events like I did it in the older version.

So, how can I see my Outlook events? Do I have to purchase the pro version?

Thx, Mike

---

Re:Outlook data

Posted by Rainy - 2006/11/10 04:39

---

Outlook support is only in the Pro version.

---

Re:Outlook data

Posted by kunalashar - 2006/11/10 19:05

---

I downloaded and installed the 2.0 Pro version on Windows XP SP2, but it doesn't pick up my Outlook calendar events.

Do I have to purchase a license to see that work?

---

Re:Outlook data

Posted by Rainy - 2006/11/10 19:21

---

Purchasing the license won't fix anything. If you want to get it fixed run Rainlendar2.exe from command line and give --debug as the command line argument. This will create a full debug log. Attach the log here and I'll check why it doesn't read the events.

---

Re:Outlook data

Posted by kunalashar - 2006/11/11 12:35

---

My stupid.

I didn't read the post at another thread that described how to turn on Outlook event data.

It works for me now.

Thanks!

---