
Remember the Milk support?

Posted by Boredcollegekid - 2008/05/24 20:13

Being a big user of Google Calendar its great to see it supported in the pro version of the app, but I also use Remember the milk for To-dos and would love to see the service added as an option in the pro version. RTM makes it easy to quickly sync over all PCs and devices. Any thoughts?

=====

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by Rainy - 2008/05/25 04:41

RTM publishes the tasks as a iCalendar so you can already view them in Rainlendar. I'll consider adding a full support for it in the future.

=====

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by juicebox12 - 2008/06/21 02:46

Being a big user of Google Calendar its great to see it supported in the pro version of the app.

I'm very much the same. To keep a synchronised calendar with me all times, I use Rainlendar on my Windows desktop (it's by far the best looking desktop calendar for Windows I've seen), sync'd to my Google Calendar account. I then use GooSync to connect to my Nokia E51's calendar using WiFi and everything is fantastic- the only manual sync I need to do is when I'm within WiFi range to get the calendar data to my phone.

The one thing I'd like to see in this otherwise excellent program is the ability to include a tasks/to-do list within all 3 calendars and keep it synchronised. I know Rainlendar supports tasks when using it's own calendar, but Google Calendar doesn't natively support 'tasks'. Remember the Milk, however, acts as a plug-in to Google Calendar so if Remember the Milk could synchronise with Rainlendar's task list, I think that would add a tasks/to-do list on all 3 calendars.

Is this possible? Would this be likely to be included in the future? I know it would make the 15Eur Pro license fee a little more tempting for those in need of a low-cost, Windows/Net/Symbian S60 synchronisation solution.

=====

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by bmouthboyo - 2008/06/24 13:59

I too would love this, unfortunately I just purchased Pro thinking it would sync everything, I have never used Google calendar before so bit gutted to now find out its only the Calendar :(

=====

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by Rainy - 2008/06/25 11:21

They seem to allow only non-commercial usage of their API. I sent them a mail but haven't received any answer yet.

=====

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by Alp - 2008/10/27 07:52

Any progress here?

=====

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by juicebox12 - 2008/10/28 02:35

Yeah would this still be on the cards? Having tasks/calendar integration online in one program would be fantastic, but I'd be happy to deal with 2 client-end applications.

=====

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by Rainy - 2008/11/02 09:52

Yes, the RTM support is still under development. I've been just busy with some other things.

=====

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by Alp - 2008/11/02 10:12

Very nice news, i hope to see it finished soon :)

=====

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by itsmoirob - 2008/11/12 07:28

Until RtM support is released what is the best way of using RtM and Rainlendar at the moment. Sorry if this has been asked a dozen times I'm new to Rainlendar and just hunting through the forums for ideas.

=====

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by Alp - 2008/11/12 08:26

I think there is only one-way sync possible. You can import your rtm todos, but cant change them in Rainlendar.

=====

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by itsmoirob - 2008/11/12 08:42

How would you go about doing that? (Sorry to be asking such basic questions) Would RtM be showing up through the calendar, RSS, To Do list?

=====

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by Rainy - 2008/11/12 11:48

You should be able to use the "iCalendar Service" or the "iCalendar Events Service" urls with Rainlendar's Network Shared Calendar plugin (Pro version required and the tasks are read-only).

=====

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by itsmoirob - 2008/11/12 11:57

Ahh, I see. I was using the "ical" option.
Yeah I have a Pro account (your welcome :D ha)

I just tried it out and it's working fine. I'm glad it sticks everything in the To Do list.
What is the reason that it automatically goes in there? Not that I'm complaining I much prefer it in there, I'm just wondering how it knew?

And good luck with Rtm Support. I hope your able to to sort something out.

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by memozebadua - 2008/11/19 10:27

I would also love to have RTM with Rainlendar :)

Re:Remember the Milk support?

Posted by Doctor Colossus - 2009/03/12 22:12

ME TOO!! :cheer:
