Sunday Next Week

Say Today is Friday, Rainlendar displays upcoming for Sunday, as Sunday Next Week, now from a pure English point of view this is technically correct, however it is confusing because of the perception of Sunday Next week would be taken as literally Sunday in a Weeks time not the Sunday as in two days time.

Suggest instead that events that occur in the next six days, the word Next Week be dropped, and instead just the day is displayed, Events that occur greater than six days time still have the next week tag.

IE: Today is Friday, so events between Saturday to Thursday would NOT have the next week, however Friday in a week's time would.

Build 29 has an alternative way (EventListAgeFromStartOfWeek) to define the event list headers.
