
Is it possible to show a clock?

Posted by andygrunt - 2006/11/26 11:44

Hi,

I've just discovered Rainlendar and really like it so far. I've been looking around it to see what's possible and as part of this I looked into the default skin.

It looks like there are graphics for a clock to be displayed but I can't see any option to turn it on in the menus.

Is it possible for Rainlendar to show a clock and if so, how do I turn it on?

Thanks.

Re:Is it possible to show a clock?

Posted by Jackal - 2006/11/26 12:20

You mean a digital clock?

It's already in the default skin, just add a DigiClock and it will be shown.

Re:Is it possible to show a clock?

Posted by andygrunt - 2006/11/26 12:26

How do I 'add a DigiClock'? I can't see anything in the menus mentioning it.

Re:Is it possible to show a clock?

Posted by he_the_great - 2006/11/26 16:23

Options -> Skins -> click advanced -> left side arrow down on shadow -> Digital clock click the '->'

If you were looking at the analog clock images with the skin, it didn't work well in linux so I think Rainy just removed it.

Re:Is it possible to show a clock?

Posted by andygrunt - 2006/11/26 16:32

Wow, that was buried away and I've found the year view too, thanks.

I prefer a digital clock over analog anyway so it suits me fine.
