
Import Question

Posted by Ticogrande - 2006/11/28 14:26

I use(d) the Yahoo calendar which with the new release, no longer works properly.

I can export a .csv file from Yahoo, but it appears Rainlendar 2 cannot import it. Is this correct? It seem like such a good calendar it is hard to believe it won't but the .csv but it appears it accepts only the .icalendar?

I am not a calendar expert... can the .csv be converted to .icalendar?

Thanks

TG

=====

Re:Import Question

Posted by Rainy - 2006/11/28 14:42

Rainlendar can import only ics-files. You might be able to convert the csv file with some other calendar application that is able to import them and export ics-files.

=====

Re:Import Question

Posted by Ticogrande - 2006/11/29 04:54

Such as? (and please don't tell me Outlook as we are not permitted to use it).

Post edited by: Ticogrande, at: 2006/11/29 04:54

=====

Re:Import Question

Posted by Rainy - 2006/11/29 06:14

Perhaps this works (I did not try it myself): <http://www.manastungare.com/projects/yahoo2ical/>

=====

Re:Import Question

Posted by Ticogrande - 2006/11/29 10:25

Well the good news is that it SEEMED to do a perfect job of converting to ICS, but as I do not know exactly what an ICS format looks like, I cannot be 100% sure. There appears to be no corruption though in the ICS file when viewed in a text editor.

The bad news is each time I try to import it, it imports 0 records.

Ideas?

=====

Re:Import Question

Posted by Rainy - 2006/11/29 12:07

Attach the ics-file and I'll take a look at it.

=====

Re:Import Question

Posted by Ticogrande - 2006/11/29 15:57

Done

Sent to support@

=====

Re:Import Question

Posted by Ticogrande - 2006/12/01 12:44

Any luck Rainy?

TG

=====

Re:Import Question

Posted by Ticogrande - 2006/12/04 14:25

Hi Rainy

It has been several days since I emailed the calendar to you.

Not sure if you received it as you did not reply to my email not reply here.

Can you update me please?

Thanks

=====

Re:Import Question

Posted by Rainy - 2006/12/05 12:52

Yes, I got your email. You should be able to import the file with the build 29.

=====

Re:Import Question

Posted by Ticogrande - 2006/12/05 22:53

Great!

When will build 29 be coming out? I just downloaded and I see it is still b28 from 11/28

I can wait... but I'd like to know so I can put it on my calendar!!

=====

Re:Import Question

Posted by Rainy - 2006/12/06 08:57

Build 29 can be downloaded from the beta forum.

=====

