

---

DominentNegative RL - Need help hacking a skin

Posted by ethermonk - 2009/05/06 09:55

---

Hi,

I got the updated version of DomentNegative off of skinyourscreen.com and really like the updated graphics for the calendar. I have a minor issue though, the calendar can only be placed in the upper-left 80% of the screen and I can't figure out why.

I thought perhaps it might be a resolution issue but it does the same thing on my netbook. It is like the calendar is hardwired to only be placed in the upper-left hand corner of the screen. I have not played with xml before so I don't know what I am looking for. The events and task panels are fine, they can be placed anywhere.

Anyone have some tips for me?

Here is the code:

ok, there doesn't seem to be any way to show xml code in here...

=====

Re:DominentNegative RL - Need help hacking a skin

Posted by Rainy - 2009/05/08 12:35

---

The calendar window probably extends outside its visible area. Try setting the Options->Advanced->"Keep on screen" to No so you can place the window outside the screen area.

=====